Puts Stacks of Gold On the Farm

The Finnigan Stacker Hood is easily attached to any blower and allows the blast to escape so the straw falls naturally, making it easy to build a solid weather resisting stack with a solid center. It is now sold at the lowest price in history. Thousands of users would not be without it. Sold on trial—if not satisfied in every way you can bring it back and will not have to pay for it. Write for catalogue and new low prices. If your dealer cannot supply you write us direct.

Use plenty of good, clean straw bedding and pile up after used. The action and natural heat in the manure pile converts every wisp of straw into the best fertilizer you can use.

Pioneer 322 Gives You 3 Extra Wagonloads of Corn From Every 50 Acres You Pick

Yields 2.45 Bushels Per Acre More Corn Than The Average Hybrid

Pioneer 322 ranks first in yield among all hybrids with a 4-year record (1936-39) in the North Central Section of the official Iowa Corn Yield Test. It yields 2.45 bushels per acre more corn than the average of all hybrids.

If your wagon box holds 40 bushels, this means 3 extra wagonloads of corn from every 50 acres you pick . . . or $70.00 worth of extra corn you can sell, seal, or feed.

You Get Safe Maturity—Better Standing Ability

Pioneer 322 normally ripens and produces good sound corn before the average first killing frost. You don't have to worry about soft corn. In a 4-year record of the Iowa Corn Yield Test—North Central Section—it contains 0.8% less moisture than the average hybrid. And what's more . . . Pioneer 322 stood up better in the 4-year average. It showed 3.1% less lodging than the average hybrid.

Next spring, plant Pioneer 322. Take advantage of that extra yield and profit, be sure of safe maturity, and strong standing ability.

PIONEER 307 FOR SOUTHERN PART OF JONES COUNTY

Many farmers are planting this later, high yielding, profit-making hybrid in the southern part of the county. Pioneer 307 matures about 10 days later than Pioneer 322. It should be planted on your best soil.

New Pioneer Hybrids — Bred To Give You Beautiful Fields As Well As Yield

PIONEER 324 . . .

The kind of corn that brings crop growing pleasure plus plenty of extra dollars. The plants all look alike, grow shorter than the average hybrid, and carry their ears evenly about waist high. The ears are large, uniform, and hold their width well to tip. They contain soft-starch kernels. Same maturity as Pioneer 322.

PIONEER 330 . . .

At last, the kind of hybrid corn you have wanted for years . . . one big rough ear per stalk, soft-starch kernels, low uniform ear height, attractive plant appearance, extremely stiff stalks, big yield . . . all the qualities you demand in corn combined in this hybrid. Gives your fields a dressy appearance. You can spot a Pioneer 330 field way down the road. Medium late maturing.

COMMON WHITE WASH

Slake quicklime (burned stone lime) with enough water to make a thick paste. While it is slaking add for each bushel of lime, a pint of lard or other grease and a cupful of salt. Add water slowly to the lime but do not boil it. After it is reduced to a white powder by heating, add enough water to bring the solution to a thin, creamy consistency, and strain through a piece of burlap. It is advisable to add 4 ounces of some coal-tar disinfectant to each gallon of mixture. Have all surfaces clean before applying.

The length is found in top line, the width in left-hand column—the height being taken at 10 ft. Thus, a crib 24 ft. long, 7½ ft. wide and 10 ft. high, will hold 800 bushels of ear corn, reckoning 2¼ cubic feet to hold a bushel. If not 10 ft. high, multiply by the given height and cut off right-hand figure. If above crib were only 7 ft. high, it would hold 800 x 7, equals 560 (0 bu., etc.). The same space will hold 1-4/5 times as much grain as ear corn. Thus, a crib that holds 800 bushels of ear corn will hold 800 x 1-4/5, equals 1440 bushels of grain.

INSULATING WAYLITE WALLS

Waylite Blocks are made of cellular, lightweight aggregate. The cells are sealed, and do not transmit heat, cold, sound, nor moisture. When made into concrete for walls, floors and ceilings Waylite transmits less heat and cold than any other building material. Waylite blocks are in the highest fire retardant class,—by Underwriters Laboratory Test.

An 8 inch wall of concrete composed of sand, gravel or crushed stone, has a cold and heat transmission factor of .65. Common concrete blocks made of this material are slightly more insulating because of the cores or voids in the block, and this factor is reduced to .55. In extreme cold weather the common concrete block will show frost (frozen condensation) on the inner wall of your basement. For that reason it cannot be used above ground.

The heat and cold transmission factor of Waylite Insulating blocks is only .25. Compared with common concrete blocks, less than half the cold or heat can penetrate a wall made by Waylite. Such a wall is worth double the value of the common concrete wall because of the double insulating value. And this insulating value can be further increased by filling the voids in the blocks with Rock Cell, which reduces the heat and cold transmission factor to .108.

Use Waylite Insulating Blocks. Build cold and fire resistance into your walls.
